The Arctic Guitar Trio

Trond Davidsen - Jarl Strømndal - Arne Brattland

Our three Norwegian guests all have their origins close to the Arctic Circle. All received part of their musical education at the Norwegian State Academy of Music in Oslo. Their trio was established in 1991.

Trond Davidsen won the viewers' prize in a Norwegian TV talent contest and has since given recitals throughout Norway and around the world. He now lives in Drammen where he runs his own guitar academy.

Jarl Strømndal moved on to the Guildhall School in London where he won the concert recital diploma - Première Prix. He has worked with actors, painters and dancers as well as other musicians. He now lives and works in Trondheim.

Arne Brattland also moved on to London, making his international debut at the Wigmore Hall. He now lives and teaches in Hampshire.

The Trio will have spent a couple of days recording a new CD with John Taylor in Weston church, so this recital comes hot off the tracks. Their programme will include Villa-Lobos's Bachianas Brasileiras No.1, Tres Romances Argentinos by Carlos Guastavino, and three movements from Ginastera's ballet Estancia.. We are also hoping for some music from Norway (but tbc).

This is the last of Weston Music Society's three Spring concerts, but stand by for three more in the Autumn including a visit from the celebrated Mandolinquents Trio on Saturday 18th October.
