Hermanos Corbalán

The harp is the traditional instrument for the folk music of Paraguay, and the Corbalán Brothers - Sixto and Juanjo - are among its finest exponents. Unlike the fate of many other traditional musical instruments, the Paraguayan harp's repertoire has continued to expand to include contemporary classical and popular music of all kinds, played and sung in very untraditional ways. The Corbaláns' programmes surprise and excite audiences wherever they play.

The Scotsman was certainly captivated. “Both players combined individual virtuosity with endless inventive elaborations in sensational fashion” was last year's verdict. And the year before (of Sixto alone): “A thrilling sweep of dynamic, textural and emotional contrasts, from bare-knuckled bassy attack to exquisitely pretty playfulness, tangy jazz tones to country-blue licks....standing ovation.”

This year's tour includes the Isle of Wight, Wales, Oxford, ourselves, Manchester and finally several gigs around Bonn and Cologne. We are very lucky that they have been able to include Weston in this line-up. This is not an everyday opportunity. Seize the day!

Pre-concert suppers are available again at Weston's Red Lion restaurant - two courses for £15.00. Visit www.redlionweston.co.uk to see the menu and book. Tell us, and we'll keep concert seats for you.

This is the last of our three Autumn concerts. We shall be back again in March. Keep in touch at www.westonmusicsociety.org.uk, follow us on Facebook and Twitter or join our mailing list by emailing us at westonconcerts@gmail.com.

We are ever grateful to the Arts Council for North Herts and our generous patrons/members who make it possible to offer such an eclectic variety of music - and musicians!
